EARLY END OF COAL STRIKE SEEN IN MOVE

Conciliation Effected in Meeting with Lewis Called by Martin.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 10 — House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) called John L Lewis and Ezra Van Horn operators representative, into a special conference today in an effort to settle the 27-day-old coal strike After the session Martin predicted an early settlement of the dispute.

Martin, who became an unexpected peacemaker in the tangle, said Lewis and Van Horn quickly agreed on Senator Bridges (R-NH) to be a third, or neutral, member of the board of trustees for the miners pension fund.

Fills Gap on Board

A dispute over payments from the pension fund led to the walkout of miners March 15. The board has been without a third member since January, when Thomas Murray of New York resigned. The absence of a neutral member has been cited as one reason for failure to reach an agreement

Martin told reporters agreement on the member has been the "great difficulty"

As chairman of the trustees, Lewis called a meeting for 10 a m tomorrow

Lewis and Martin agreed that a settlement on the pension issue might be threshed out within 48 hours.

Lewis Gives Word

And then, Lewis told reporters "I think it is a reasonable assumption the men will return to work"

Asked whether he expects any difficulties in reaching an understanding on the pension question, Van Horn said "We will have to take that up when we get to it"

The surprise turn in the coal strike came as the government called for surveys of fuel stocks at power plants in the light of rapidly dwindling supplies

BOY FINDS SHOW RESTFUL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 10—The double feature movie was long, and John Ferline, 10, fell asleep during the second half of the bill. When he woke up early today he was alone in a locked, dark theater. So John used the theater phone to call his father, and aided by police he got him out through a side door.

Favorable View Taken Toward New Hospital

Members of the Marion Civic Planning association voiced favorable opinions on the construction of a new municipal hospital during informal discussion of the issue brought before the association's annual meeting last night at Hotel Harding

Members individually indicated the association should back the program for a new hospital under federal aid providing the legal issue on joint financing can be cleared up

Mayor Harry L Dowler's request for consideration and backing of a construction program was turned over to the new board of directors for study and investigation

The new board will report its findings to a general membership of the association to be called at a later date No tentative date was set for the report meeting

New Members Named

Four new members were elected to the board last night They are Miss Philomen Gregg, principal at the Pearl street school; William Kehrwecker, representative of the Disabled American Veterans, Ed Parr, field representative, United Steelworkers CIO and Ray Beverly, business agent for International Association of Machinists Returned to the board were Robert Bush chairman of the veterans committee, Carroll Davidson, Marion central labor union, Harold Grigsby, Ohio Public Service Co; D A Howard, Huber Manufacturing Co' A W Kette, insurance agent Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, Altrusa club Harley Lewis, Mackert and Lewis Walter Moore, attorney, Mrs C R Pennisten, P-TA council, County Prosecutor James E Reed and Ben T Wiant, Osgood Co

The board of directors will elect association officers at the next called meeting

Point to Need

It was the consensus of the more than 50 association representatives attending the meeting in the Marion club room at the hotel that there is a definite need for a new hospital

Suggestion that a survey be undertaken to get an idea of how the people feel about building a new hospital was advanced by Harold Grigsby Organizations mentioned by Mr Grigsby as possibly willing to undertake such a survey were the Lions club or Rotary club

The legal question of participation by the nine townships outside Marion county in financing the program, providing they are willing was raised by Mr Krigbaum and Mr Wiant

Absence of the county prosecutor who has been making a study of the question in conjunction with Mayor Dowler, precluded definite airing of the joint participation question

Several members privately said they were of the opinion that a bond issue for a new hospital would go through despite the fact that 65 per cent of the taxpayers would have to vote for it, including rural residents

Italy's Admittance at Once To UN Is Demanded by U. S.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, April 10—The United States demanded today Italy be admitted to the United Nations immediately.

U. S delegate Warren R. Austin told the security council another Russian veto of the application could be interpreted by the world only as an expression of the Soviet Union's lack of friendship for the Italian people

The United States, Britain and France jointly reopened the Italian application in the council, where Russia twice vetoed it in 1947. The move was timed with this month's Italian election, where the Communists are fighting for power

Calls Veto Unjust

Austin said a grave injustice has been done to Italian people by the Russian vetoes

"We ask that they immediately be granted their rightful position among nations," the American delegate added

He assailed the Russian position that Italy should be admitted only along with Finland, Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary, other ex-enemy states The U S opposes Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary. Austin said.

"Surely there is no justice in penalizing a people who have proved themselves to be qualified for membership by coupling them with states which by their own actions have shown they are clearly disqualified

"This attempt at bargaining is surely beneath the dignity of this council

"If the same tactics are attempted, and if this council should unfortunately fail to recommend Italy's admission * * * the world can interpret the act in no other way than as an expression by the Soviet union of a lack of friendship for the people of Italy"

Joe and Charlie Are Back on Job Of Reducing Accidents

Joe and Charlie Jaycee, Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce famed talking dummies, were back in action today in front of Frank Bros store on the southwest corner of West Center and Prospect streets making their usual instructional comments on the behavior of their human counterparts in the area.

Their second appearance of the season is an important part of the Junior Chamber's campaign to reduce accidents in Marion by eliminating jay walking at busy downtown intersections The dummies are equipped with loudspeakers installed under their chests which are operated from concealed vantage points near where the dummies are stationed The comments, safety slogans and other admonitions which are seemingly emitted by the dummies are supplied by various Jaycee members over a concealed microphone connected with the dummies

Joe and Charlie were supplied with their voices today by Bill Parks, Robert Solinger, John Powell Jr, James Osmun, and Jaycee safety chairman Ray Coleman during their five hour stunt.

Joe and Charlie stand facing each other and many a startled Marion pedestrian has ruefully grinned at being caught in his own folly by these two well-dressed human looking non-humans. The dummy project of the Jaycees is being directed by Don Flach, Jaycee vice-president.

The hope of Joe and Charlie and the Jaycees assisting them is to reduce if possible eliminate Marion's contribution to the 12,500 pedestrians killed in the nation each year of which 3,000 are killed at intersections.

HAS CONTROL NOW, ASSERTS PRES. PEREZ

Communist Link Suspected; Conference Delegates Stay at Headquarters.

By The Associated Press

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, April 10—Revolutionary rioting subsided early today in the burning and looted center of Bogota A presidential statement said forces of the conservative government controlled the situation.

Delegates to the ninth international conference of American states still were cooped up in their headquarters, facing a shortage of food.

(The state department in Washington reported today the United States embassy in Bogota is menaced by fires. The report said the flames are subsiding, however.)

At least 35 major buildings were reported afire last night in the downtown section of the embattled capital The newspaper El Tiempo said 100 persons had been killed At least 200 were reported injured.

The large plaza south of the U. S. embassy was ablaze last night and a gun battle raged nearby.

(A state department press aide said latest reports from the capital were that all members of the American delegation are safe. Last night U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall phoned the state department he was all right.)

The revolution followed the assassination yesterday of a liberal leader, Jorge Eliecer Gaitan, and resulted in the setting up of a liberal junta. The government of President Mariano Ospina Perez is mainly conservative.

U. S. Courier Injured

One American, John Powell, diplomatic courier, was reported among those hurt.

No police were seen on the street. The soldiers apparently were unable to halt the wide-spread looting

Earlier last night President Perez said forces of the conservative government were regaining control of the situation.

The president issued a communique accusing Communists of inciting the uprising. He said steps had been taken to restore order.

(Diplomatic dispatches reaching the state department in Washington reported Communists appear to be abetting the revolution and helping attempts to provoke a strike.

(Diplomatic officials in Washington scanned Bogota reports today to determine just what role the Communists are playing in the revolution.

(Washington diplomatic authorities said the Communist party in Colombia has about 8,000 members)

Conflicting Reports

Perez said the fighting was diminishing. Revolutionary leaders claimed, however, the revolution was spreading throughout the country. Earlier in the day the liberals proclaimed their own government.

(Parts of this story were received in the form of a joint dispatch sent from Bogota by 10 foreign correspondents, including Joseph F. McEvoy of The Associated Press, and received by the state department in Washington. Other portions came direct from Bogota by commercial channels and still others were relayed by The Associated Press bureau in Caracas, Venezuela.

Last night the conservatives reoccupied a radio station the insurgents had held. Other government forces firing from the towers of the cathedral killed 14 persons on Carrera Septima street.

Conference Halted

Delegates to the ninth Pan American conference in the capitol building left the building when the rioting started. Newspapermen still inside were endangered when parts of the structure were set afire.

The building remained in the hands of the rebels.

Late last night Gen. Armando Revoredo, chief of the Peruvian delegation to the conference, offered Lima as a replacement site for the parley.

Revoredo made his offer to Secretary Marshall. Delegates were reported ready to meet today to consider the situation and possibly decide whether to continue here, postpone the conference or accept the Peruvian offer.

U. S. Ambassador Willard Beaulac told the state department he had been informed by a liberal representative the conference would not continue as long as conservatives remained in power in Colombia.

(The representative assured the ambassador that conference delegations and foreigners would not be molested.)

GOP STANDS FIRM AGAINST CONTROLS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 10—New inflation warnings from the White House again ran into this blunt retort today from the Republican congress—thumbs down on federal controls.

President Truman's council of economic advisers raised the alarm. In a "guns or butter" economic report, the council analyzed the impact on the nation's economy of $6,000,000,000 in foreign aid spending, the 27-day-old coal strike and a proposed $3,000,000,000 outlay for defense. Then the President's advisers urged:

►Administration power to say how scarce products will be distributed, plus indirect manpower controls to steer workers into vital industries.

►New taxes to cover future boosts in federal spending for military preparedness.

►Enactment of the "standby" price, wage and ration authority asked last year by Mr. Truman, as well as power to control bank and consumer credit.

The reaction of Rep Wolcott (R-Mich), chairman of the house banking committee, where most of such legislation would originate, was cold.

"It seems unnecessary," he told reporters, "to restore any controls until we see the impact on our economy of the military spending and foreign aid."

TEACHER SHORTAGES LAID TO COLLEGES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 10—Dean Evan R. Collins of Ohio university tossed the Ohio public school teacher shortage into the laps of the state's colleges today.

In a prepared speech to the annual convention of the Ohio College association, Dean Collins said:

"The present shortage of elementary teachers in Ohio constitutes a grave threat to the educational system at all levels. Any collegiate institution is a tree cut at its base if it is unsupported by an adequate system of elementary and secondary education.

"From the broader viewpoint, the colleges of Ohio have an acknowledged social obligation to lead in the solution of this critical social problem."

Dean Collins is chairman of the association committee on teacher-training in elementary education. Of his committee's survey, he said:

"The state does not now have facilities in its colleges sufficient to educate elementary teachers in the numbers it needs now, and will need in each of the next five to eight years."

New Car Output 70,000 Week But Can't Keep Up With Orders

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT, April 10—The car industry made another 70,000 automobiles this week but orders continued to pile up faster.

Included in the week's output was the 1,000,000th passenger car to be assembled in United States factories this year. While output to date is nearly 100,000 units ahead of last year's volume at this time the industry is losing ground in the drive for a new record this year. It is feeling the coal mine shutdown.

Talk in industry quarters right now centers around the possibility the steel shortage will be even worse during the latter half of the year. The car and truck factories are eating into their inventories for current production.

Sheet Metal Short

At no time since the car builders returned to peacetime operations nearly three years ago have they had all the sheet metal they wanted. On the basis of the present outlook they will not have that much at any time this year.

According to all indications next week's output should be severely hit by the coal tieup. Besides receipts of sheet steel at the body factories parts from suppliers also are expected to be curtailed.

Along with steel shortages traceable to the coal mining stoppage, the car industry again is worried about the probability of government allocation and price control of steel before mid-year.

At the start of this year's car production the industry's chroniclers were almost unanimous in predicting a new output record this year. Right now most of the industry reporters as well as a sizeable number of the car makers themselves have revised their estimates downward.

Do Well To Match

Many best informed sources say the industry will do well if it can match last year's total production of 3,358,178 passenger cars and 1,239,472 trucks and coaches.

In the overall total of 4,797,650 cars and trucks, last year was the fourth highest in the industry's history but the showing was due mainly to the heavy output of trucks. As far back as 1923 and in eight subsequent years the passenger car volume was exceeded.

Excepting a few makes in the upper medium and higher priced brackets that now can be obtained on relatively short notice, the car buyer today is in exactly the same position he was at this time last year. Makers of popular models still have more orders on file than they can fill with the indicated production of the next 12 months.

ATOMIC BY-PRODUCT CURE FOR GOITER

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 10—If you are one of this country's millions of goiter sufferers, you may find your cure in radioactive iodine—a by-product of atomic research.

Use of the radioactive iodine shipped here from the Oak Ridge, Tenn. atomic plant has cured 30 per cent of toxic goiter sufferers treated at Cleveland university hospitals, a panel of physicians reported last night.

The physicians, members of Western Reserve university's academy of medicine, said at a meeting of the school's institute of pathology that such treatments during the past 18 months also had improved the condition of another 30 per cent of the patients.

Object of the radioactive iodine treatment was to reduce the activity of the thyroid gland, not to destroy it, the panel said. Toxic goiter results from excessive activity of the gland.

The local medical experts said their test showed the new treatment was superior to use of X-rays, since it eliminated the danger of skin burns and caused irradition only in the diseased tissues.

NEW YORK CENTRAL CANCELS 116 TRAINS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 10—New railroad personnel cuts were predicted today as the New York Central announced cancellation of 116 trains in line with a government order to reduce service further because of the soft coal strike.

The 116 trains will be taken off at midnight next Thursday, the New York Central said. The curtailment includes many of its long distance passenger trains and a number of upstate New York points.

The road already had suspended operation of 169 trains and laid off 7,000 workers after a previous government order to cut coal burning runs 25 per cent.

Other railroads also forecast additional layoffs as a result of the new edict.

Meanwhile the Consolidated Edison company of New York, which said yesterday it had only a month's supply of soft coal, received 4,000,000 gallons of fuel oil from Venezuela.

The imported fuel—to be used in an electric generating plant—will provide the heating content of about 22,000 tons of coal, approximately a week's supply.

The railroad said that among the through trains the following would be dropped:

The Wolverine on both runs from New York to Detroit and from Detroit to New York; the DeWitt Clinton between Buffalo and New York; the Chicagoan, between Cleveland and New York; the Mohawk, Albany to Chicago; the Water Level Limited, New York to Chicago; the Interstate Express, Chicago to Boston; the New Enland Wolverine, Boston to Detroit, and the Upstate Special, New York to Albany.

REDS IN MERGER OF PARTIES IN PRAGUE

By The Associated Press

PRAGUE, April 10—The Social Democratic party is to be merged with the Communists into a "single Marxist working class party." This was assured today when the Social Democrats' central committee voted to ask its congress April 17 to approve the merger, similar to that of left-wing parties in other Eastern European countries.

Today's action came as the Social Democrats ratified a proposal for a single election list at the polls May 23. This plan needs only parliamentary approval to make it law.

Author Bromfield's "Man Friday" Dies

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., April 10—George Arthur Hawkins, the man Friday of novelist Louis Bromfield for 18 years, died yesterday in the St. Regis hotel at New York.

Hawkins, 45, was the Ohio author's business manager, secretary, spokesman and often his taskmaster. He edited Bromfield's manuscripts and helped him polish up passages.

A resident of Malabar farm, Bromfield's country place near Lucas, O., Hawkins had come to New York to visit his sister, Mrs. Jean Aldrich, who lives at Patchogue, N. Y.

Hope Bromfield, the novelist's daughter, telephoned home she had lunch with Hawkins yesterday; that he didn't "look well" and retired to his room for a nap.

Hawkins later was found dead in his room. He apparently died of a heart attack. He was a native of Patchogue, and funeral services will be held there, probably Monday.

SURVEY ORDERED OF LITTLE SCIOTO

Commissioners Told of Action in Columbus.

Directors of the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district have ordered a survey made of the Little Scioto river watershed to ascertain the feasability of including flood control measures for the Little Scioto in the official plan of the district.

Action by the directors instructing C. C. Chambers, district chief engineer, to make the survey was taken Friday at a meeting of the directors in Columbus, according to word received today by the Marion county commissioners.

Commissioner Carl Lehner reported the action follows a request made by Marion county to the conservancy district for survey relative to the cleaning of the Scioto and Little Scioto rivers.

Request was made in view of the fact that present conditions of the two rivers make virtually useless any attempted relief to land owners in the watershed through cleaning out county ditches, Mr. Lehner explained.

"The county could not consider cleaning out the rivers and assessing landowners due to the prohibitive cost, Mr. Lehner said, adding further that in the opinion of the commissioners the project should be the responsibility of state or federal agencies.

Commissioners said they have had to dismiss several ditch petitions involving the two rivers this year.

OHIO INDUSTRY FEELS DRAG OF COAL STRIKE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 10—The coal strike, now about three weeks old, slowly is strangling industrial production in Ohio. More and more workers are being laid off.

Effects of the strike are many, making accurate assessment of the exact numbers of workers now idle difficult.

Among the hardest hit, reports indicated today, are railroad employes.

Chesapeake and Ohio railway said last night that between 14,000 and 15,000 employes throughout the system have been laid off because of the coal strike.

In Baltimore, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad said 25 per cent of its forces—about 15,000 workers—have been or will be furloughed for the same reason.

Cincinnati reported the worst situation today. A railroad spokesman said 5,000 workers will be idle in that area by next week. More than 2,000 railroad employes have been idle at Cincinnati since the early days of the mine walkout.

The same spokesman said "The situation will get much, much worse if the coal strike continues."

Most Ohio public utilities still were in fair shape, with more than a month's supply of fuel on hand.

COACH CRISLER NOT LEAVING U. OF MICH.

By The Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 10—H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, coach of the University of Michigan's undefeated 1947 football team, today squelched rumors to the contrary by announcing he would remain at Michigan as athletic director.

For more than a week rumors have persisted Crisler was on the verge of leaving his Michigan athletic post to accept a lucrative position in industry.

"My roots are too deep in the university * * * and college athletics to leave my position," Crisler said.

Fritz said he had a "serious offer having to do with industrial relations" and was very much interested for a time but turned it down finally yesterday to "stay in a job I know something about."

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Rash That May Trouble Baby.

At one time or another most mothers of young babies have to contend with diaper rash. This inflammation of the skin which comes in contact with the wet diaper is caused by the ammonia, formed by the action of certain germs that grow on wet diapers.

This rash can be extremely painful and irritating to the baby and a problem for the mother. In the past, many different substances have been used on diapers to get rid of the ammonia-forming germs. One method has been to soak the diapers in solutions of such substances as bichloride of mercury or boric acid. Bichloride of mercury, because of its poisonous qualities, is not ideal for this purpose, and boric acid, while safe, has not been found completely effective.

More recently a different type of anticeptic, known as quarternary ammonium compound, has been used. The diapers of children with a diaper rash were treated with a solution of this substance. No irritating effects on the skin were noted in any of the children.

The treatment was employed in fifty infants. The diapers were first washed and then allowed to soak for ten minutes in the solution. Wrung out of this, they were allowed to dry without rinsing. After three days, it was noted that in 31 of the infants, the diaper rash began to clear up. In 18, it had disappeared completely. In one instance there was no benefit. Following one week of treatment, all but this one child were cured.

After the treatment was stopped, the rash returned in from two to four weeks in 14 cases. The treatment of the diapers was again started, and again the rash disappeared.

If a baby has already developed diaper rash, it is suggested that all the diapers be treated with this solution.

To prevent the condition, it would probably be enough to treat only the diapers worn at night with this solution.

Of course, diaper rash will not develop if the baby's diapers are changed as soon as they become wet, but this is not always possible, particularly at night.

In treating diaper rash, the physician, as a rule, suggests the use of some mild ointment to protect the inflamed skin and to relieve the irritation. However, with the proper treatment of the diapers, the development of this skin condition can be prevented altogether.

High purity oxygen has many uses in industry, medicine and in aviation.

The Window To Independence
We're Interested in YOUR Family's Future. Are You?
As each week and month passes, tragic evidence is displayed of the lack of foresight of some very well-meaning fathers. They like to think of themselves as "good providers." Yet it sometimes amazes us when we see what little time they devote to a practical, down-to-earth savings plan for their family's economic welfare when they are no longer here to "carry the dinner pail." Yes, we're vitally interested in YOUR family's future. We would like to discuss with you at an early date the many ways a systematic savings plan can help you lay the groundwork for their financial independence in the years to come. MUSIC PRODIGY CONDUCTS CONCERT IN CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 10—Ferrucio, nine-year-old Italian prodigy, conducted a symphony orchestra here last night and Cleveland's emergency relief for Italy fund was slightly enriched by the feat.

Winning a battle with the Ohio industrial relations bureau, which threatened to cancel the engagement, the curly-haired boy's group said "the show must go on" and awarded one-third of the proceeds to the relief fund.

A sprinkling of an estimated 2,000 spectators in Cleveland's huge arena indicated, however, that proceds from the performance would be slight. No official figures were available immediately on the "gate."

The pudgy youngster appeared oblivious of the dispute as he scampered about the stage, waved his baton with zest and held his arms high over his head in dramatic gestures as he conducted 80 veteran Cleveland musicians.

Farmers To View Tests on Pastures

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, April 10—Plans are being completed for the trash-mulch pasture improvement demonstration to be held on the John Irvine farm west of Chesterville on route 95 April 22.

Between 500 and 1,000 people are expected to see the demonstration sometime during the day, according to C. H. Patzer, chairman of the planning group.

"Any farmer in the county can take a few extra minutes off, and see what can be done to rebuild these old, worn out pastures," he said.

Twelve acres of pasture land will be seeded by the trash-mulch method as a demonstration. The Irvine farm lies on the north side of route 95, one mile west of Chesterville. A large sign has been erected on the plot. Lunch will be served.

PHONE DIRECTORIES ADOPT NEW LOOK

All Names Listed Together To Save Subscribers' Time.

Telephone books for the Marion district have a new look this year.

The books, issued annually in April, are "interlocking" this year. All nine communities in the Marion district of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. are combined alphabetically instead of the former separate listings by communities.

The telephone company, which began distribution of the directories yesterday afternoon and expects to finish by Tuesday, adopted the new system to cut down the ringing of wrong numbers and saving subscribers' time in looking up numbers.

Now, instead of thumbing through nine sections for John Doe, a subscriber merely looks through the D's. The Does in Marion, Green Camp, Harpster, LaRue, Morral, Nevada, Prospect, Richwood, and Waldo, all are together.

The number of telephone users in the Marion district increased by an estimated 750 over last year, Jack Boyd, district commercial manager, said.

In February of this year there were 13,102 telephones listed, of which 10,602 were in and near Marion

"Swing" Toward Dewey Claimed in Nebraska

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, April 10—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey played out to the limit today a "swing" his aides claimed has begun in his direction in Nebraska's GOP presidential primary next Tuesday.

Paul Lockwood, the governor's secretary, told a reporter he thinks Dewey has started "a swing in our dierction" by vigorous campaigning in the last two days.

As an example, Lockwood noted the governor talked to 9,000 persons—a respectable cross section of the populace—in five meetings yesterday. This included a crowd of 2,000 in an Omaha High school last night.

Dewey flew to western Nebraska today to court the farm vote, which Harold E. Stassen, one of chief contenders, claimed last night he already has taken into camp.

Stassen flew to Washington today for the Gridorn dinner—an occasion that Dewey decided at the last minute to pass up in favor of more campaigning.

Vandenberg May Be Surprise Factor in Nebraska Primary

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, April 10—The possibility developed today that Senator Arthur Vandenberg—who says he isn't running—may influence the result of Nebraska's GOP presidential primary.

Vandenberg is one of seven whose names have been entered in next Tuesday's voting. Nebraska Republicans will say then what man they would like the party to nominate for President at the June Philadelphia convention.

The Michigan senator isn't campaigning. In fact, he tried to get his name withdrawn. This was in line with his repeated statements that he isn't a candidate and will not "connive" in a draft movement.

But Nebraska politicians who know their way around say there is some strong sentiment in the state for the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee.

These politicians do not suggest that Vandenberg, without any campaign or any organization and without being a candidate, can top the list of possible nominees in the balloting here.

List Top Three

But they do contend he is likely to be among the top four. The three leaders generally are expected to be Harold E. Stassen, who walked away with the Wisconsin primary, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Robert A. Taft.

The politicians here haven't figured out yet which of the three would be hit hardest by an unexpectedly large Vandenberg vote.

Stassen, who has been unstinting in his praise of Vandenberg's record, hinted at a news conference here yesterday he thinks the vote cast for some of those who aren't campaigning in Nebraska may cloud the primary outcome.

Besides Vandenberg, the names of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gov. Earl Warren and House Speaker Joseph Martin will appear on the Tuesday ballot. None of the latter has made a campaign, although Warren made one speech in the state.

MacArthur, who gathered in eight delegates to Stassen's 19 in Wisconsin, is not looked upon as much of a factor in the contest here.

Effect on Outcome

Stassen told reporters that while he thinks the race is between himself, Dewey and Taft, if any of the others run close the question will be raised whether that affected the final outcome.

Stassen appeared confident as he continued a series of speeches in which he planned to wind up his personal appearance campaign at Fremont tonight.

By virtue of his win in Wisconsin, the former Minnesota governor has turned the tables on Dewey.

Dewey's supporters conceded privately that unless the New York governor tops the list here, he will be out of the running for the GOP nomination.

Conference Reports Heard by Marion Elks

Several applications were received and reports made on the North Central district meeting held at Sandusky last weekend at a meeting of Marion Lodge No. 32, B.P.O. Elks, Thursday night. Marion lodge, represented by 11 members, had the largest representation at the district meet.

Arrangements were completed for a dinner to be followed by dancing with Glenn Johnson and his orchestra playing the program, Saturday night. It was announced that final plans will be made for the spring conference to be held at Columbus April 23, 24 and 25, at a meeting of state committees Sunday in Columbus. The annual parade of state lodges will be held at the spring conference instead of at the annual meeting at Cedar Point in the late summer according to plans.

Global Scene

By DeWitt Mackenzie

GENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK, for 21 years the strong man of China, yesterday placed before the public the most important element needed to pull his country through the terrible crisis which besets it.

That element is faith.

"Despite foreign criticism of our inflation and military defeats," he told the national assembly at Nanking, "I have faith."

Words not backed by sincerity are of course like the thumping on an empty barrel, but we have no reason, so far as I can see, to doubt that Chiang means exactly what he says. On what does he base this faith?

MACKENZIE

Well, for one thing, despite the mad inflation which blankets China, the generalissimo declared that she is solvent. He asserted that the country has enough gold, silver, other assets and U. S. dollar credits to recall all of the Chinese currency afloat. He added that now, with the $463,000,000 in aid from America, "the prospects of economic life are brighter than ever."

Then of the military situation Chiang, while admitting serious mistakes, disclosed that his armies are changing their strategy. They no longer will try to defend all positions but will concentrate for decisive blows—"big eat little," as he put it.

Chiang asserted that government strength was growing in northern China and he guaranteed to annihilate all Chinese Communists below the Yellow river, in central China, within six months. Not only that, but he would defend Manchuria as well.

THOSE ARE BRAVE words, and we hope the Generalissimo is a good prophet. One doesn't challenge his forecast, for he knows his country and its people, but I think we must fall back on the old adage that the proof of the pudding is in the eating. We must see what effect the fresh American help will have, and how the new military strategy of "big eat little" fares.

To get at the core of this problem we must go back a week to another speech by the Generalissimo in Nanking. At that time he said that the civil war was China's most critical problem and that the Chinese Communists "must be beaten if China is to live." Naturally he was talking about the life of nationalist China as it has existed under his government, and this view also is that of many objective observers.

BUT IT STRIKES me that we must carry the matter a step further than that. Defeat of the Communists won't solve the problem. There is no hope whatever of uniting Communism with any other political creed. In some way or other the Communism must be eradicated or it surely will strangle the government—a basic truth not only for China but as regards all other countries.

What then will the end be? Chiang swears that "in 30 years or 60 years the Reds will not conquer China." But supposing the Generalissimo does defeat them, and can't absorb them into the nationalist political life?

Time alone can answer these questions, but I think we must consider the possibility that China will be divided and that the Communists will create states of their own.

EYES CORRECTED

BUCYRUS — The eye correction program carried on by the Bucyrus Lions club was extended to four more children this week, bringing the total to 35 given corrective treatment since the project was adopted. Four children from the county were taken to Pontiac, Mich., Sunday for treatment of crossed eyes.

The rare flower, shortia, is found only in the mountains of North Carolina and in Japan.

The People's Case

JOHN L. LEWIS may be able to find enough legalities to win his case in court. But he cannot win his case in public opinion.

His repeated demonstrations of disregard for public welfare have deprived him and the members of his union of the sympathy which formerly was stirred by efforts to improve their welfare.

He has caused at least 164,000 persons to be out of work, not counting the members of his own union—and all of this over a dispute in which the general public has no special interest.

He has handicapped the production of steel at a critical time and has curtailed the operation of the nation's railroads.

He has interfered with the domestic economy in a way that will severely handicap efforts to bring about political stability abroad through a program of sharing production with war-devastated countries.

He has furnished additional incentive for users of fuel to turn from coal so they can be immune to his whims—and this at a time when there is a grave shortage of other fuels.

He has raised the false issue of involuntary servitude to becloud the fact that nearly half a million miners can be taken off their jobs by his personal decision.

In 1946, Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, judging Mr. Lewis and his union guilty of civil and criminal contempt for disregarding an order to go back to work, called what had been done "a threat to democracy itself."

The Housing Bill Again

THE Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill, pigeonholed so long many of its provisions have been outmoded, has been revised and, by a 7-6 vote, reported on favorably by the senate currency and banking committee. Senator Taft, its principal sponsor and Republican policy chairman in the senate, will seek a vote on it at this session.

As now written, the bill would provide for construction of 15,000,000 housing units in the next 10 years through an expanded and coordinated federal program of loan and investment insurance to builders and owners, slum clearance aid for cities, expanded low-cost housing projects and research in building techniques. The bill, as it now stands, has little chance in the house but Senator Taft hopes an agreement can be worked out so that both houses will vote on it at this session.

Forbearance in Berlin

THE Berlin situation, eased somewhat by the western powers' tough talk after last week's plane crash, is taut again. Marshal Sokolovsky's oral apology, made shortly after the crash, was nullified by subsequent statements, and the campaign of Russian innuendoes, threats and accusations has increased in intensity.

The feinting and sparring in the war of nerves continues. Fortunately the western allies are represented in Berlin by military commanders who also know a thing or two about feinting and sparring. By their cool-headedness they have kept a dangerous situation under control.

The Russians would like to force the western powers out of Berlin. Failing that, they hope to keep shoving them around for the psychological effect it will have on the rest of Europe. Isolated as they are, the western powers' Berlin garrisons are at a disadvantage. So far that disadvantage has been minimized by the patient, rational policies of Gen. Clay and his associates who have yielded neither to provocation nor to threats of force.

Same Bait, Same Hook

IN THE battle of promises being fought at European polling places, Communists have the advantage of being out of office trying to get in. The candidates favored by the United States, on the other hand, have the disadvantage of being already in power and trying to stay there against the pressure of discontent with things as they are.

Thus, the Communists have a chance to use the cutest trick of American electioneering practice—promising the moon while blaming the incumbents for not already having delivered it, tied up in a big red bow. When the Communists get in office, of course, they can forget their promises because there are no more free elections. As Adolf Hitler demonstrated, a dictatorship needs to worry about only one election—the first one.

If Europeans can't always see the hook concealed in the bait, it's charitable to remember that Americans, with vastly more experience in free elections, haven't always seen it either. The fortunate difference is that Americans always have another chance. The Europeans whose votes are being sought to set up police states by popular mandate have only one chance.

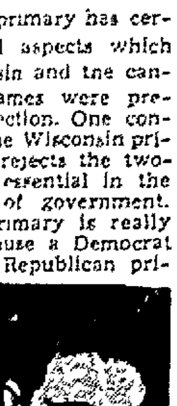
Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

An Analysis of the MacArthur Defeat.



SOKOLSKY

THE Wisconsin primary has certain national aspects which transcend Wisconsin and the candidates whose names were presented in that election. One confusing factor is the Wisconsin primary law which rejects the two-party system, so essential in the American form of government. The Wisconsin primary is really non-partisan because a Democrat may vote in the Republican primary and vice versa. This makes it possible for the opposition party to help destroy the stronger candidates in order to face a weaker man on election day.

1. There can be no question but that General MacArthur would have been a stronger candidate on election day than any other the Republicans have to present. But it is now doubtful whether he is a candidate at all. In fact, his repudiation by the voters in the so-called Republican primary in Wisconsin would indicate that Eisenhower was correct in reading the public mind: This is not a year for a military man. Henry Wallace appraised that situation accurately, namely, that the people do not want war. Wallace goes too far in the sense that he misreads a resistance to war as an approval of Soviet Russia.

The fact that General MacArthur did so badly in Wisconsin is evidence that in 1948 no general would have much of a chance, for although the Democratic vote in the Republican primaries cannot be discounted altogether, it must not be given such weight as to distort a final judgment.

2. The Wisconsin primary finally eliminates the LaFollettes, who have been seeking to return to the Republican party leadership in this campaign. Phil LaFollette was one of the MacArthur managers. Were MacArthur a factor in the Republican convention, Phil and Bob LaFollette would be factors as well. The socalled Wisconsin progressives would have been absorbed in the Republican organization. They still remain on the outside—possibly now as a political cadaver.

Coleman a New Star

Instead, a new man for the rest of the country, Thomas E. Coleman, former state chairman of the Republican party in Wisconsin, looms increasingly large. He managed Senator Joseph R. McCarthy's campaign two years ago and elected him; and now he has put over Harold Stassen in the Wisconsin primary. Coleman is a manufacturer of machine tools in Madison Wis. He will be an effective aid to Harold Stassen in the convention.

3. Up to now, Republican politicians have been discounting Stassen. He has had considerable outside-the-party support, particularly in Wall Street and among former New Dealers, but they assumed that it would not amount to much in delegates. The general feeling has been that he was really running for vice president and that he might end up as a member of the cabinet. In recent months, it has generally been assumed in the Republican party that Stassen was a stalking horse for Senator Arthur Vandenberg and that out of his activities would eventuate a Vandenberg-Stassen ticket.

N. Y. Solid for Dewey

The effect of Stassen's unanticipated victory in Wisconsin will be a union of all other forces to eliminate him. After all, he can never get the 97 votes in New York state. Those delegates will not only be solidly for Dewey but will be under his command. Not one doubtful delegate has been chosen in New York state and no Republican will risk a rebellion against Dewey, because he remains governor and controls the party machine.

Similarly, Robert A. Taft will have the bulk of the Ohio delegation. Stassen will undoubtedly have a few Ohio delegates, particularly in the northern part of the state, but he has engendered such ill-will in that state that those opposed to him will fight him to the bitter end.

No Republican will be nominated who is opposed by New York and Ohio, not even in a third party year. As a matter of fact, whereas Dewey, Vandenberg and Stassen used to be friends, Republicans in New York state feel that their candidate has been mistreated by both Stassen and Vandenberg. Should either be nominated, they might sit on their hands—which would increase both the Truman and Wallace proportions.

That is how it stands and, translated into sample terms, it means that Harry Truman is not a dead duck yet.

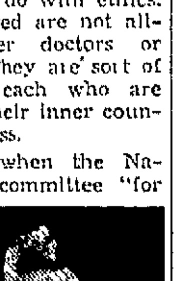
Newspaper Ethics

By Frank Tripp



TRIPP

A COMMITTEE of doctors diagnosed their own case and now have a bear by the tail. They tried self-medication for their public relations ills with dire results.

The row has to do with ethics. The groups involved are not all-inclusive of either doctors or newspapermen. They are sort of special groups of each who are having it out in their inner councils and trade press.

It all started when the National Physicians committee "for the extension of medical service" got a bright idea. It was a roundabout, impersonal way to conduct a country-wide publicity crusade against Socialized Medicine.

Time was when the mere suggestion that doctors craved publicity would have roused the animals. Chartered trains, of troop transport dimensions, would have rushed from advertising headquarters to any spot in the Mohave Desert, if doctors would even discuss so unethical a device as publicity.

But this time the mountain went to Mohammend. With prizes and everything—and an idea that belongs in the soap business. They offered a thousand dollar prize to the cartoonist who would produce the best pictured argument against Socialized Medicine.

The men whose caricatures make millions think were insulted. That one grand could start no special riot among them was not the issue. Some of them drop that much on every trip to the bookies.

If the insult—"and methinks a tiny one" as Poo Bah did proclaim—had dcome from a profession less steeped in ethics, no doubt it would have reached wastebaskets with no more scolding than do the daily offerings of average press agents.

* * *

The well-intentioned doctors, who declare so much on their side against public health care, put their foot right in it. They killed bales of voluntary argument in their behalf and scared off top flight artists who might have gone all out for their cause if there had been no prize involved.

What the ethical knights of the sethoscope overlooked was that there also are such things as newspaper ethics. They, and you, may never have heard of them but they do exist and, when they're stirred up, a hornets' nest is as docile as a puff ball in comparison.

You see, the offered prize amounted to a bribe, the cartoonists thought; an offer to buy the power of their art and the editorial space which their drawings occupy. Most editors and publishers agreed with them. They all said so, and the row was on.

* * *

Some editors who might be as anti-Socialized Medicine as is the doctors' committee have even tabooed the topic in their columns, lest their readers think their editorial attitude can be influenced by a prize.

Thus somebody's cute idea went upon the rocks and another important group of intelligent people came to know that ethics are not confined to medicine, clergy, the law or plaques that hang on office walls.

As old as medicine, is the tenet of the reputable writer that his editorial integrity cannot be bought; that it must not be placed in jeopardy; that he will defend the sincerity of his words against suspicion.

* * *

There are no oaths of allegiance, no proclamations of ethical standards in editorial offices and news rooms. But there are robust, unwritten principles by which one practitioner judges another.

These men deal in thoughts, which they put on paper and release to the world. Sometimes they are hired to express another's thoughts. Then the other sponsors what they write. In this they may not always relish their task, no more than does a surgeon who keeps a public enemy alive.

As with all professionals, their work oft puts them in a light that's little understood. But when they speak their own minds, whether under their names or upon pages entrusted to their judgment and care, none but a rare skunk among them can be had for any price—sugar-coat the potion as you will.

None of them wants to become a thought abortionist.

Words of the Wise

Think not those faithful who praise all thy words and actions, but those who kindly reprove thy faults.—Socrates.

* * *

To be able to bear provocation is an argument of great reason, and to forgive it of a great mind. —Tillotson.

* * *

It is easier for the generous to forgive, than for the offender to ask forgiveness.—Edward Thomson.

* * *

It is not well to see everything, to hear everything; let many causes of offense pass by us unnoticed.—Seneca

* * *

Have a heart that never hardens, a temper that never tires, a touch that never hurts.—Dickens.

* * *

He that speaks the truth executes no private function of an individual will, but the world utters a sound by his lips.—Emerson.

* * *

Truth never hurts the teller.—Robert Browning.

There is only one real failure in life that is possible, and that is, not to be true to the best one knows.—Farrar.

Daily Bible Thought

There is no profit in worrying about that we cannot help. God created us for a purpose, try to find out what that purpose was and discount trivialities: "Cast thy burden on Jehovah and he shall sustain you."—Psalm 55.22.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, April 10, 1938.

The greatest turnout to voters in German history gave Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler the biggest majority of his career in the day's plebiscite. Nearly 50,000,000 men and women marched to the ballot box or were carried there, or had the ballot box carried to them if they were ill.

Miss Esther Guthery of Delaware avenue entertained with a luncheon at Hotel Harding complimenting Miss Leora Thompson, whose marriage to Hugh Wright was to take place on April 23.

Stepin Fetchit drew capacity houses at the Palace theater where he appeared for four performances during the day and evening.

A daughter was born to Rev. and Mrs. M. E. Hollensen of South Prospect street.

Mrs. Emma Beit Williams, 70, wife of John Williams, died at her home in Prospect.

Six children were baptized by the pastor, Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, at the First Presbyterian church. They were Ben William Bechtel, David Linus Morton, Elizabeth Ann Morrison, Barbara Ann Houghton, Ann Elaine Overlander and Constance Bartram.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, April 10, 1928.

Bloodshed, violence, beatings, kidnapings, ballot box stuffing and terrorism marked Chicago's wildest primary election.

The Oakland theater, located at Davids street and Bellefontaine avenue, was leased for 10 years to Reuben Maxson of Celina, who planned to open it after making extensive repairs.

Although Marion's temperature of 23 was one of the lowest in North Central Ohio, the frost did little damage to early fruit crops, local growers reported.

World prohibition was predicted by Henry Ford, America's famous motor car manufacturer, who was in London. He stated that America was enjoying national prosperity and expressed the belief it would continue indefinitely.

Miss Mary Lois Smith, a teacher in the Dayton public schools, returned to that city after spending the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of South State street.

Mrs. Gerald Byers was a guest at a meeting of the Amici Bridge club at the home of Mrs. Kelley Vance on Uhler avenue.

WASHINGTON

NOW that the dust is settling, the practical politicians are beginning to draw conclusions from Governor Harold Stassen's resounding victory in Wisconsin. A number of these are pretty obvious. Stassen, once an extreme long shot, has become a Presidential contender to be seriously reckoned with. General of the Army Douglas MacArthur has fallen off his white horse, and in this undignified process has badly bruised Colonel Robert R. McCormick, William Randolph Hearst and the other Republicans of their peculiar kidney. And of course, Governor Thomas E. Dewey has suffered worst of all.

But the curious thing is, the professionals generaly agree that Stassen is going to have to work very hard, from now on out, to capitalize his Wisconsin victory. Stassen and his supporters recognize this themselves. They went into Wisconsin in a mood to be glad of a vice presidential nomination on a ticket with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg. They bet the bottom dollar of their considerable campaign funds, actually outspending the lavishly well heeled MacArthur forces. They were themselves astonished by the outcome.

The primary ballots were not completely counted, however, before Stassen was laying out the next phases of his strategy at a meeting with his lieutenants at his house in St. Paul. As these words are written, Stassen men are passing the hat(with gratifying response) in the East where the big money is. What is now planned is a sort of series of simple line-bucks—first, an attempt to come out top man in Nebraska, which the Stassen camp claim they may achieve second, a grand effort to cut the gizzard out of Senator Robert A. Taft in Ohio, where the Stassenites hope for ten delegates; and finally, another victory in Oregon. If all this can be accomplished, they hope that Stassen will come into the convention as front runner.

Needs More Victories

The professionals agree that if Stassen thus adds three more victories to his success in Wisconsin, he will indeed have the Republican presidential nomination conceivably within his grasp. But they add the qualification that if Stassen should now experience a defeat, his Wisconsin success will prove more beneficial to others than to him.

The loudest claimers of incidental benefits are the adherents of Senator Taft. Stassen, they say, has dealt a body blow to Taft's most dangerous rival, Governor Dewey. And Stassen, they add under their breaths, has also disposed of a grim threat to Taft by MacArthur. It is hard to know which pleases them most.

Certainly to the Taftites, pleasure over MacArthur's defeat has a certain irony. MacArthur was first put into the Wisconsin primary by Taft's people, in the hope of hurting Dewey, and in the knowledge that Senator Taft himself could hardly win a Wisconsin primary for county clerk. Then, for various local reasons, zation climbed on the MacArthur zation climed on the MacArthur bandwagon. And after that McCormick, Hearst and a gagge of others like them joined the parade, and the money began to pour in. The Illinois delegates are Taft's dearest treasure. The redoubtable Colonel McCormick's loud proclamations that Taft was a very nice man but MacArthur was very much nicer sent cold chills down every Taftite's spine.

Picture Unsettled

In short, until MacArthur tumbled, the Taft people feared they had created a sort of Frankenstein's monster, who would compete with them for the ultra-conservative Republican support. That fear is now laid. The Taft camp also hopes for Dewey delegates, like some of those in Oklahoma, who may be unsettled by the Wisconsin results.

The professionals agree broadly with this analysis, but add two provisos. First, it is far too early to count out Governor Dewey. He can still recoup in Nebraska, where the situation seems to baffle the experts even more than that in Wisconsin.

Second, the defeat of MacArthur was a resounding rejection of the extreme conservative-isolationist brand of Republican in the same state which once dramatically rejected progressive Republicanism in the person of Wendell L. Willkie.

Sway It
With Flowers

A Hollywood designer is featuring dresses with receptacles in the bustles to hold cut flowers or potted plants.

It's variation of an old idea, that of carrying Four Roses on one's hip.

This is a fast-moving world. Just about the time you get used to the "new look," along comes the window-box rumble.

I've heard of bats in the belfry, but never before begonias in the bustle.

The old-fashioned girl had to maneuver you into the garden. The modern miss carries her's around with her.

The new device lends itself to a variety of moods, claims the designer. A girl can wear something clinging, such as ivy, or symbolic, as the touch-me-not. Or even, one imagines, a mint-bed if she's the julep type.

The time may be coming when the belle of the ball will be she who wears, not the fragile orchid at her bosom or the fragrant gardenia in her hair, but the restless rhododendron on her rear.

Clement Moore and the Circus

SINCE "Twas the Night Before Christmas" theme has been made the super spectacle motif of Ringling's Circus this season, ye ed confesses a tendency to see Kris Kringle only as added circus talent, a new big-top act. We suddenly behold Clement Moore, arm in arm with P. T. Barnum. We think of the creator of those lines "Not a creature was stirring," etc., as now in dazzling bedlam of noise. We can almost fancy an advertisement reading:

The effect on the kiddies is awaited with concern. By next winter they may think of "Mama in her kerchief" flying from one trapeze to be caught by "Papa in his cap," hanging by his knees from another. From countless nurseries may rise the words:

When what to my wondering eyes should appear.
But an elephant herd and a charioteer! . . .

We were thinking of the "Night Before Christmas" as a circus motif the other night when we dozed off and had a dream. We were under the big top and the ringmaster was announcing:

"Ladies 'n' Gentlemen! Your attention please! You are about to behold one of the greatest circus attractions of all time, that unequalled master of rooftop acrobats, that dazzling, daring, death defying rider of the wintry gales! . . That roaring, rollicking rebuilder of childhood faith in the incredible exploits of the superman!

* * *

"Keep your eyes focused on the main ring ladies 'n' gentlemen, and in a moment you will behold the Jolly Old Elf Himself, jolting, jettisoning and jarring the credulities!

"No other man in the annals of time has attempted this hair-raising, awe-inspiring nerve-tingling epic and colossal performance in housetop and fireplace acrobatics . . . ..From the remote and impenetrable fastness of the polar regions comes this unrivaled and unsurpassed monarch of merriment this king of captivating capriciousness, this potentate of plenty, maharaja of munificence sultan of suspended stockings and exponent of endless energy!

* * *

"With him we present papa and mama, the original eight reindeers and a super team of twenty-four giant moose. See them in action! Behold their peerless performance! Ladies 'n' gentlemen, presenting for the first time under canvas the one and only, the incomparable amplitudinous sensational soul stirring brobdingnagian, stupendous, intrepid hero of the most titanic exploits ever performed by man behemoth or leviathan, the one and only scintillating Saint Nick!"

(The dream stirred us to such an extent that we went to the circus to get the truth. It wasn't quite like that at all. Santa isn't shot from a cannon, he doesn't ride a bike in midair and at no time tries to fill the stockings in a cage of wild beasts. The Clement Moore is all in the opening pageant, thank heaven!)

That recent letter from T. Manville the tomcat about plunging into the Atlantic while flying home from England and landing in Shangri-la—forget it. The plane he was cadging a ride in made a landing at Old Orchard, Me., to pick up gasoline. T. Manville was discovered hiding among the luggage, was thrown off and sent the story about being exiled on a "golden beach" for a gag.

He's exiled all right, in a crate en route to the Twillery. Something happens to newspaper correspondents who stay away too long and it seems to have happened to T. Manville. He has lost touch with reality. The stuff he has been writing sounds like some of the drool turned out by the hot shots banging out copy for the syndicates. He needs to get his teeth into some solid American food and learn what's going on among the common people.

It will be up to him. There's a nest egg of $23.75 deposited to his account, representing balance due for columns written from various places. Even at present prices, that's a lot of sardines. If he wants to keep on being a typewriter tramp there's nothing to stop him, but for the sake of his career, he should settle down, get married and have kittens.

For the benefit of readers who may not know T. Manville, he is the only literate tomcat in existence today — a big fellow weighing 9 pounds at his best weight, coal black, except for a few white hairs at the tip of his tail and unmarked unless you count a small scar on his left ear.

His specialty is getting over the ground. He's the only tomcat ever to use the facilities of the Travelers Aid Society in Paducah, Ky., from a standing start at a point 200 miles away the night before. Thousands know him by reputation. He's the one that's heard in the middle of the night going eeeeyawrrrppphtǃ—at 40 miles an hour.

He occupied the guest room at the Twillery until a spaniel-type dog challenged his prerogatives. That put him on the road. While many skeptics doubt that he can read and write, among men who know tomcats best it's T. Manville two to-one. Late last year when this column was taken over for a few days by a writer who specializes in the inside truth, it was revealed that T. Manville was a graduate cum laude of Suffern Cats, an institute for advanced study of feline matters by a group of cats at Suffern, N. Y.

The same writer dug up the information that T. Manville won his panther's degree at the institution with a thesis on "Tom-catting in Many Lands," a work that will stand for many years as the definitive work in its field. That's all there is to say about T. Manville, except that he's coming home. Eeeyawrrppphtǃ

Use of cotton for bags decreased in the United States from 820,000 bales in 1943 to 440,000 bales in 1946 owing to the return of burlap to the market and increased use of paper bags.

The sermon subject last night was "The Voice of Satan." Rev. Presnell stated, "The record of Genesis reveals that the devil spoke through a serpent. The voice of modern liberalism is the voice of Satan, which the word of God calls the anti-Christ. The voice today is as subtle as it was in the Garden of Eden." Delegations were present from Mansfield and Hayesville.

Crusade To End

The 10-day Cooperative Crusade for Christ Through Evangelism which has been in progress in churches of the Marion Baptist association will close tomorrow night with "victory services" in each of the participating churches. Visiting "crusaders," denominational leaders, will preach in the various pulpits and new members or others who have made "definite commitments for Christian living" during the crusade will be present to share in the closing services, it was stated.

A total of 22 school or civic groups in the city and county have heard messages delivered by the various visiting leaders.

The crusade in the Marion area is one in a series of several hundred similar campaigns being planned across this country in the territory of the Northern Baptist convention, "and "experiences gained in this local crusade will form the pattern for others which will be held during the next year." Dr. G. Pitt Beers of New York City is general director of the whole program. He is executive secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission society. Rev. J. W. Poorman of Granville, director of evangelism of Ohio Baptists, will direct the program in the state. Pastor of Trinity church, Rev. J. B. Holloway, has been area chairman for the local crusade.

Come and See

A Sermonette

By REV. M. K. HOLLENSEN

Pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church.

"He saith unto them, Come and see."—John 2:39.

* * *

HOW shall the church carry on its great project of evangelizing the world? How can the church interest men in true religion? Should the church attempt to answer all the problems and difficulties that men raise against Christ before an actual introduction to the Master is given these objectors?

In the Gospel of John we find how Jesus Himself carried on His mission work, how He caused His Kingdom to grow. By the Jordan's banks Jesus stood one day, and John the Baptist pointed to Him and said, "Behold the Lamb of God." Andrew and John, who were disciples of the Baptist, heard these words and decided to follow the Master. They were quite curious to know something about Him. The first thing that these two men did was to ask Jesus a question with regard to the place where He lived. The Savior did not answer that question; He felt it was not the time and place to enter upon such a conversation. In reply He said these words, "Come and see." Christ wanted them to come and see for themselves. They accepted the gracious invitation of Jesus, and never regretted having done so.

On another occasion, Philip, after he had been called to the apostolate, went and sought Nathanael. This latter-named individual had difficulties which he wanted settled. He turned to Philip and asked, "Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth " Philip, however, knew that it was not the time for argument, so he turned to Nathanael and replied, "Come and see." And Nathanael never regretted having done so.

In these brief words of Jesus, "Come and see," we have laid down for us the most effective way to bring men to the Savior. Men do have intellectual difficulties with spiritual truths. The apostle Paul had them. But intellectual difficulties with regard to the person and work of Jesus Christ can be solved, if men are willing to accept Christ's invitation and "Come and see." Let all men never allow intellectual doubts to keep them away from Christ, or to serve as an excuse for unbelief. Let them come to Christ, examine Him for themselves, talk with Him, and very soon such difficulties will disappear. Christ is confident that if individuals will but become acquainted with Him, they will love Him as Lord and Savior.

Then, too, there are men with heart difficulties and misunderstandings. Here is the root of most of the trouble as to why so many men pass the Savior on life's way and yet never follow Him. The heart by nature does have its troubles with regard to Christ—and many troubled, indeed! But the reason? Well, human hearts find joy in doing that which God forbids. Sinful hearts find pleasure in hating, in being jealous, in being envious. Every sin of which the heart is capable always has an accompanying pleasurable experience. So the ruler of this world, Satan, has arranged things! And because living according to the dictates of a rotten heart brings such exhilarating pleasures, some men maintain that they have too many doubts in their hearts with regard to Christ to accept Him as their personal Savior.

It is true that the life in Christ militates against the natural desires of our hearts. But let us know that heart-difficulties are not reasons for remaining away from Christ—they are only weak excuses by which we show, whether we so desire or not, that we want the pleasures that sin brings rather than the peace of forgiveness in Christ. The sinful desires of our hearts, regardless of the pleasure they bring, lead only to one end, and that is eternal separation from God.

AMEN.

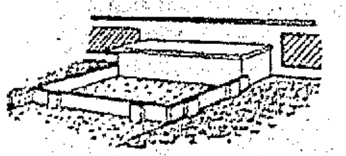
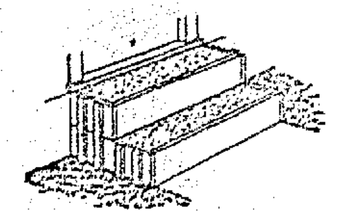
Low-Cost Concrete Improvements

Practically all suburban and country houses will benefit by a few small concrete additions which offer icreased convenience and comfort.

One of the best suggestions along this line is the making of a plain, flat slab of concrete at the bottom of either the front or rear entrance steps. The work involved is extremely simple. A plain wood form, three or four inches high, is set at the bottom of the steps as illustrated, and secured in place with stakes driven into the ground. This form is then filled with a mixture composed of one part of cement, two parts of sand, and three parts of broken stone or gravel. This makes up what is usually referred to as a one-two-three mix; and it produces a good enduring concrete. A slab of this kind offers exactly the right kind of place for a foot-mat of wire or fibre, and saves no end of step-cleaning and sweeping. This small convenience is welcome at ground-level doorways as well as at the foot of steps.





Another excellent small concrete addition to the average house is the building or pouring of a solid concrete set of steps. Most wood steps deteriorate, and require replacement or repairs. A solid concrete job is good for a lifetime of wear and use. The making of the form is hardly much more trouble than that of the form for the slab. The illustration shows the simple box-like arrangement, ready for filling with concrete.

The forms should be left in place for at least five days, and during that period the work should be kept covered with damp cloths so that the concrete will not set up too rapidly. At the end of five days, the work should be allowed to dry uncovered, before it is put into use.

No more than five gallons of water per bag of cement should be used in making the concrete. This comparatively dry mixture will produce a strong job. A greater amount of water produces a weak concrete.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Walls Wet in Bedroom

Q. Our unused corner bedroom is never heated. As soon as the first cold weather comes, the walls become wet from floor to ceiling and remain wet all winter. This only occurs on the two walls which are next to the outside of the house. As the room is never heated we do not think it can be caused by condensation. The house has a basement and is fitted with storm windows, but isn't insulated. We would like to know what causes this wetness and what we can do to prevent it.

A. I believe you are mistaken in thinking that the cause is not condensation. The warm, moist air of your house must find its way into the cold doom and, because of the moisture, it condenses on the two exceptionally cold walls. More heat in the room or weather-stripping of the door ought to improve the conditon.

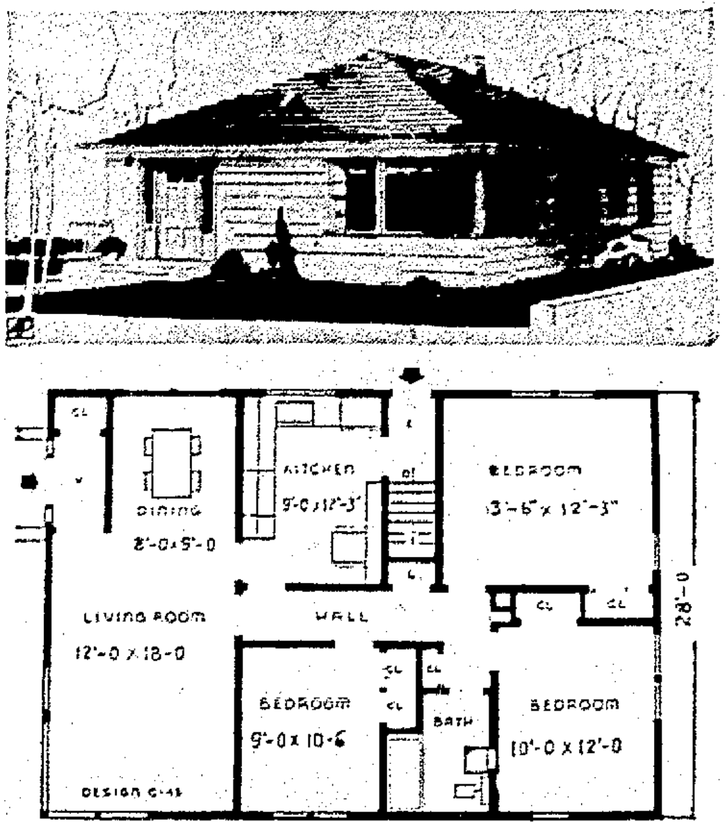
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



Planned for economy of simple rectangular construction, this house of 1,120 square feet gets a maximum amount of floor space with a minimum of foundation. It was designed by the Small House Planning Bureau of St. Cloud, Minn., as Plan C-43. With full basement, the house contains 21,280 cubic feet. If built on the south side of a street the kitchen and dining space would get the morning sun. Reversal of plan would produce the same result on the north side of a street. The house can be built of frame construction with shingle or clapboard siding, or of concrete or masonry. Three bedrooms and open plan living-dining area afford a lot of livability.

DU PONT Self-Cleaning House Paint STAYS WHITE
Yes, "Self-Cleaning" Du Pont House Paint is so formulated that, as time goes by, a microscopically fine white powder forms on the surface. Heavy rains wash the powder away, taking dust and dirt with it and leaving the surface clean and white again. Excessive accumulations of dirt (particularly in sooty industrial communities or in heavily shaded locations) may delay or interfere with this process. Because this "Self-Cleaning" is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected....It starts white...It stays white.

Roving Reports

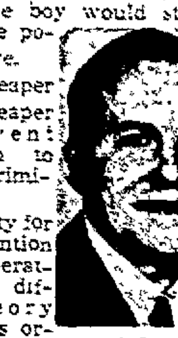
By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

W[illegible]N a gun-toting youth on a [illegible]page shoots and kills a cop [illegible] costs the state about $125,- [illegible] send him through the [illegible] to the electric chair.

[illegible] if he gets a life term it [illegible]ally costs almost double [illegible] says Edwin J. Lukas, ex-[illegible]e director of the Society for [illegible]revention of Crime.

[illegible] if one-tenth that amount [illegible] been spent on the same boy when he was a youngster, the crime would never have happened. The boy would still be free and the policeman alive.



Hal Boyle

"It is cheaper—much cheaper—to prevent crime than to punish criminals."

The Society for the Prevention of Crime operated under a different theory when it was organized in 1875. The "do good" people had the idea then they would stop crime by sending gamblers and prostitutes to jail, tearing down Tammany Hall, and prosecuting corrupt cops they caught grabbing at graft.

Now the society has decided that trying to stop crime under its old program was like trying to cure stomach cancer by taking off a finger wart.

"THE WAY TO PREVENT crime is to prevent the criminal." said Lukas, a 46-year-old lawyer who gave up a better-paying legal practice seven years ago to come to the society.

This pat phrase sums up a program to abolish crime which Lukas feels is neither patsy nor visionary.

"The criminal is a sick man," said Lukas, who spent 18 years himself as a criminal and civil attorney. "But his disease should have been detected and cured in early childhood. Jails and prisons don't stop crime.

"Insecurity of any kind is perhaps the beginning point of all anti-social behavior. Crime is always a symptom of a purely personal maladjustment in the life of the offender.

"I have talked to hundreds of adult criminals, and I don't know of one who felt that when he was a child he was loved and wanted by his parents."

How can you "prevent the criminal?"

"A UTOPIAN WAY would be to train people for parenthood," said Lukas. "If we could do that—train them to be parents just as they are trained now to become cooks or lawyers or doctors or bus drivers—it would be the most significant step ever taken in the prevention of crime."

He said many parents who deeply love their children never manage to make the children aware of it.

"If a child runs a temperature or has a persistent stomach ache, they call in a physician." Lukas said. "But if the same child shows symptoms of a bad behavior pattern few parents take him to a behavior scientist—such as a psychiatrist or psychologist—to get a diagnosis.

"Yet early diagnosis is as important in halting crime as it is in halting tuberculosis."

He listed as danger symptoms in children habitual lying, over-aggressiveness, stammering, habitual setting of fires, exhibitionism, excessive shyness or extreme behavior of any kind.

THE SOCIETY believes city and state governments can best prevent crime by cutting down on the number of maladjusted children. It actively works for the creation of free public guidance clinics staffed by competent behavior scientists, separate children and youth courts for delinquents, shelters and vocational schools, public youth hostels, and hospitals for youngsters with mental disorders.

"We need to be able to take kids who need special treatment out of their homes, train and redirect them, and then return them back to the community able to carry on under their own efforts," said Lukas.

"If only 25 per cent of the $6,000,000,000 a year we put into law enforcement was spent on scientific crime prevention measures, in a short time the national crime bill would be cut considerably.

"It is much, much cheaper," Lukas said again, "to prevent crime than to punish criminals."

UNION COUNTY OFFICES TO BE RUN BY STUDENTS

MARYSVILLE, April 10—Representative seniors from Union county's 12 high schools will "run" the various county offices located at the county seat here Monday. Each county office has been assigned to one of the 12 schools who will select a main "office holder" and several assistants who will operate the offices under the supervision of the regular county officials. County Supt. Gale W. Baldwin says that the idea back of the program is to give pupils a better chance to see just how the county is operated.

Mrs. Carl Keller, chairman, Mrs. J. H. Andrews, Mrs. E. O. Smith, social; Mrs C. H. Lindsey, chairman, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Alfred H. Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY'S laugh at my indignant declaration about Georges was even heartier than the one he had given my retort to his thrust about providing a shoulder upon which Georges could weep. And when his merriment finally subsided, he gave me a quizzical, yet appraising glance.

"Do you know I have hopes of you," he said. "You sound as if you could do a mopping-up job on Georges, if he should need it. You're coming on! Perhaps in time you'll resign your office as P.O.-T.S.A.F.-W.E."

"If I were a meanie," I told him, smiling, "I would refuse to bite on that bait. But I'll ask you anyway. What's behind that set of letters?"

"A mouth-filling title," he said, grinning at me. "President of the Soothing Association for Wounded Egos."

"I'm sorry I asked you," I said pettishly.

"You ought to be thankful I didn't insert 'Masculine' before 'Egos'." he teased. Then he crossed quickly to where I was standing and gave me a "bear hug."

"Don't get sore, Sweet," he adjured me with a heart-warming kiss. "You know I'm only shooting off mah mouf. You did a wonderful preliminary job on Georges— wouldn't have reached first base if you hadn't—and're going to do a splendid polishing off job. But you know I wouldn't royal playboy hadn't bleated his yearning wish to see you."

I always think of the old proverb, "coaxing the birds off the bushes," when Dicky goes in for real earnest apology. It is simply impossible to stay angry, or even slightly annoyed at him.

"I know," I said when I had returned his kiss. "And I'm not a bit sore."

"Not now," my husband said with the accurate understanding of my mental processes which is always his. "But you could have burned me up a minute ago. However, that's all water running over the mill dam now. How long do you want me to wait before bringing Georges over?"

"When he's ready," I told him placidly. "You've already reduced him to embers. I won't have much to do."

"That's what you think, Baby," he retorted. "Don't you realize that you'll have to infuse hope and spirit and resolution into a crushed and beaten man? Georges is going to wallow in contrition and self reproach and fears for his future."

"He won't do much wallowing when I get my voice in order," I said grimly, and Dicky chuckled as he turned toward the door.

"More power to you," he said, then turned back with a question. "Now, what's on your mind after getting Georges into shape? Will you be ready to board the amored car as soon as you have finished with him?"

I stared at him in the amazement every wife feels sometimes at a husband's obtuseness.

"Did it ever occur to you," I asked, trying to make my voice highly sardonic, and failing miserably, "that Father had planned to have an elaborate and publicized house party out here in order to camouflage the wedding of Olma and Georges, and that Katie, nor Jim, nor yet the Ticers, know a thing about it?"

He put his hand to his heart in a burlesqued gesture of contrition, then made me an elaborate sweeping bow.

"A thousand pardons," he said, "also a thousand sighs. I can see where we won't be starting back until 'daylight doth appear,' and what the Chief's going to say to that, I leave to your imagination."

NEEDY AREAS MAY GET BONUS IN GRAIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 10 — World hunger areas may get a 50,000,000-bushel grain bonus from the United States this spring.

The agriculture department, announcing an improved wheat crop outlook yesterday, indicated nations importing grain from this country may be the chief gainers from a larger crop.

At the same time, the new economic cooperation administration, headed by Paul G. Hoffman, set in motion its first buying of food, fuel and "other vitally needed commodities" under the Marshall plan.

Hoffman, acting last night a few hours after he took his oath of office, ordered the purchase of $21,000,000 in emergency supplies for Austria, Greece, France, Italy and the Netherlands.

Whether the goods will go as gifts or under loan remains to be worked out, Hoffman said.

"Obviously we must keep the pipelines of assistance filled if we are to alleviate conditions of hunger and cold and prevent serious economic retrogression," he added.

The question of making more wheat available for export may depend largely on how urgent foreign needs are between now and harvest time. Some food officials favor stockpiling domestic grain surpluses for a possible future national emergency.

A crop of around 1,132,000,000 bushels of wheat was indicated by the department. This would be the third largest in history, but considerably below last year's record of 1,364,000,000

About 435,000,000 bushels of wheat have been earmarked for export for the crop year ending June 30.

A decision on a possible boost in exports will be made by the cabinet food committee after the agriculture department issues a report April 23 on wheat stocks in commercial channels.

REPORT TWO ACCIDENTS

Two minor automobile accidents occurred in the Marion area yesterday, the state highway patrol reported. A car driven by Harold Hisey of Broadway, going west on highway 31 six miles north of Marysville at the intersection of Barnett road at 11 a. m. yesterday, and one driven by Carl W. Smith of Kenton collided with slight damages to both vehicles. At 5:10 p. m. five miles south of Marion on highway 23, cars driven by Isaac Baker, of Waldo and Harry C. Smith of near Marion collided at the intersection of Benzler road.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 10—Stocks edged forward on a selective basis today although cautious selling restrained many market leaders.

Professionals continued to cash profits on the idea that a technical correction of the lengthy recovery to a 1948 peak was overdue.

Dealings quieted after a fairly active start and fractional irregularity ruled near the final hour.

Resistance was displayed by General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Electric Power & Light, Kennecott, American Can, Radio Corp., American Woolen, N. Y. Central, Illinois Central and International Harvester.

Occasional stumblers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Goodrich, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Lockheed, Consolidated Edison, North American, Du Pont, International Paper, Owens-Illinois, Southern Pacific Union Pacific Standard Oil (NJ) and Mission Corp.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

"B. F.'s Daughter" Booked at Palace

"B. F.'s" Daughter, the filmization of a best-seller novel of the same name by Jhn P. Marquand, will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace theater. Starring Barbara Stanwyck and Van Heflin with Charles Coburn, Richard Hart and Keenan Wynn, the film centers on the spirited daughter of an industrial tycoon and the three men in her life, the father whom she idolizes, the conservative and socially prominent lawyer with whom she believes herself to be in love, and the unconventional young economist whom she marries.

Barbara Stanwyck as Polly, the daughter of the industrialist, "B. F.," confesses to her father that because she cannot dominate her fiancee, Bob Tasmin (Richard Hart), she intends to marry the poor but brilliant instructor of political economy, Tom Brett, played by Van Heflin. Their marriage starts out happily with Polly helping her husband to win renown as a lecturer, but goes on the rocks when Tom learns that his unexpected success is due to his wife's money and influence.

However, it is only when Polly makes a last stand to recapture his love that she is brought to the realization that it is she and not the men in her life who must change.

Billed to be shown Wednesday and Thursday is another filmization of a best-selling novel, "The Sign of the Ram." Written by Margaret Ferguson, the film version stars Susan Peters. Alexander Knox, Phyllis Thaxter, Peggy Ann Garner, Ren Randell, Dame May Whitty and Allene Roberts.

"The Sign of the Ram," localed in Cornwall, England, relates the story of Leah St. Aubyn, the beautiful young wife of an older man who has three children by a former marriage. All three children are Leah's devoted slaves until the moment when the older two decide to lead private lives of their own. Morbidly afraid of being left alone in her castle near the sea, Leah resorts to the most violent extremes in order to keep her family beside her always.

BARBARA STANWYCK AND VAN HEFLIN are starred in the film, "B. F.'s Daughter," the story of a wealthy girl who tries to dominate two men, which will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace theater. Featured in the film are Charles Coburn, Richard Hart and Keenan Wynn.

"Buck Private," an army camp comedy starring Bud Abbott and Lou Costello with the Andrews Sisters, and "I Walk Alone," a dramatic new thriller starring Burt Lancaster and Lizabeth Scott will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Marion theater.

The former tells of the happenings when Abbott and Costello enlist in the U. S. Army before they realize it. The latter is the story of a man who is out for vengeance. After 14 years in prison, he returns to his former haunts to find his friend and partner has eased him out of the organization which grew out of their old bootlegging racket. From there he sets out to clear himself of a murder charge and bring his ex-partner to justice.

Billed as a double feature for Wednesday and Thursday are "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" and "Badlands of Dakota." The former stars Gene Tierney and Rex Harrison, and heading the cast in the latter are Robert Stack and Ann Rutherford.

In "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," Gene Tierney appears as a high spirited widow who is involved in a very strange predicament, while Rex Harrison is seen in the role of a lusty sea captain. The story in "Badlands of Dakota" is concerned with the Territory of Dakota and begins with the discovery of gold in the Black Hills.

"California Firebrand" starring Monte Hale and Adrian Booth will be the main attraction of a double feature to be shown Friday and Saturday. Completing the double billing will be "Woman from Tangier" with Adele Jergens and Stephen Dunne.

Edward G. Robinson Stars in Ohio Film

"A Slight Case of Murder" starring Edward G. Robinson, which spotlights gangsterism and racketeering, is now playing through Monday at the Ohio theater.

Robinson portrays an ex-beer runner who wants to get into the Social Register and decides to go "legitimate" when repeal comes. He starts in business as a legitimate brewer, but his stuff is terrible and the public refuses to buy. Murder, or a case of murder, occurs when his former pals take over his residence at Saratoga and proceed to shoot up the country house. Romance is provided when Robinson's young daughter falls in love with a policeman.

Being returned here for another showing Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday is the lively technicolor, "My Wild Irish Rose."

Starring Dennis Morgan and Andrea King with the new star, Arlene Dahl, the film tells a story of the musical life of Chauncey Olcott.

Softball Banquet Will Be Held at "Y" Wednesday

The annual softball banquet will be held at the Y.M.C.A. starting at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, Bob Minard announced today.

Pennants will be awarded the winning teams of the three softball leagues last year and in addition, Schlairet Transfer, winner of the city's Little World Series will receive a 20-inch trophy.

All members of the winning teams—Schlairet of the Commercial league, Commercial Steel of the Industrial, and Forest Lawn of the Church loop—and one representative from each of the teams in the three leagues will be guests of the softball commission. Tickets for others cost $1, and the public is invited to attend.

To Set Up Leagues

All prospective softball teams should send a representative to the banquet since leagues and schedules will be set up at a meeting following the dinner, and commissioner elections will be held.

It is possible that an additional league will be set up at the meeting since several organizations have decided to field softball teams this season that did not have them last year. Marion Power Shovel and Fairfield both plan to organize teams, and the newly-organized Moose team may want to enter a league.

Reservations Monday

All reservations for the banquet must be in at the Y.M.C.A. by Monday night, Minard said.

Terms of three of the 12 commissioners expire this year and elections will be held to fill the vacancies. The three are Harold Smith, Wes Wilcox, and C. M. Gorby, who took over when Harry Williams resigned last year.

After the business meeting baseball movies will be shown.

NEW YORK, April 10—Boston is getting hourly radio reports on Ted Williams' suspected appendicitis attack—or is it just a stomach ache? One report is that Ted outdid himself with a knife and fork in New Orleans . . . When Lloyd Mangrum set the record of 64 at the Augusta National golf course in 1940, he went right out to practice afterward, explaining he "didn't want to lose it." That same day Jimmy Demaret shot a 30 on the back nine.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBIA, S. C. — The Cincinnati Reds, hot on the victory trail as they head northward for the National league opener, stopped off here today for an exhibition game with the Boston Braves.

Hank Sauer, swinging a 40-ounce club, led the Reds to a 13-4 victory over the Braves yesterday at Florence, S. C. Hank powered two homers over the left field fence, and got a double and a single in five times at bat, driving home five runs.

Grady Hatton, the squat third baseman, also got four hits in five appearances. One was his fifth homer of the training season. He drove in four runs.

Howard Fox, back with the Reds after two seasons with the Syracuse farm club, stopped the Braves cold. He held them to three hits and not one Tribesman got to second base during his seven-inning trick. The Braves hit only six balls out of the infield in those seven innings.

Everett (Bud) Lively served two home-run pitches. One to first baseman Earl Torgenson for three runs and the other to leftfielder Jeff Health of the Braves.

Johnny Vander Meer and Kenny Raffensberger will work for the Reds today. Billy Southworth chose Bill Voiselle and Ed Wright

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, April 12 — The Morrow county board of education voted to dissolve the Bloominggrove local school district when they met recently. Though the district has not kept a school for two years it has remained intact, so has the school board.

The district comprises approximately 12½ square miles in northeastern Morrow county. About half, the northern, will be transferred to the Polk township board in Crawford county. TEXAN HOLDS SLIM LEAD IN MASTERS

By The Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 10—Harry Todd, a gangly Texan, held a precarious one-stroke lead as the third round of the 72-hole Masters golf tournament started today. Grouped within easy distance of him were nearly a score of sharp-shooting rivals.

Todd yesterday tacked a 67—the best round of the tournament to date—to his first round par 72 for 139 total. Claude Harmon of Mamaraneck, N. Y., was breathing on his neck at 140, the result of two 70 rounds.

Bobby Jones, making his annual token appearance in the event, slipped to an 81—his highest competitive score—for a 36-hole total of 157.

Only eight bettered par figures yesterday and six equalled them as the tricky greens and lurking hazards took their toll.

In the 141 bracket, two strokes back of Todd, were the ever-dangerous Ben Hogan and long-driving Chick Harbert. One stroke back of them were Lloyd Mangrum, Ed Furgol, Herman Keiser, Jim Ferrier and Bobby Locke.

Dick Metz, with a par 72 yesterday, found himself all alone at 143. Byron Nelson and Bob Hamilton shared the 144 bracket. Nelson slipped to a 73 after his sterling 71 of the opening round.

Jimmy Demaret, who won the title a year ago, is having trouble with his putts. His par 72 yesterday put him in the 145 class.

Champs Pretty Well Set in ABC Tourney

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 10—With most of the American Bowling Congress' booster rolling a matter of record, the 45th annual ABC tournament today took on a championship color that will last until the finish May 29.

Team leaders held their positions during last night's firing with the Teremanias of Steubenville, O., pacing the field with 2746. Chicago's Keeleys, holder of several national records in league competition, settled for 2712.

Members of the Detroit E & B team, former national match champions, showed a reversal of form in minor events after a disappointing team total. The Detroiters claimed second in doubles, eighth in singles and the third best aggregate total in all three events for the tourney.

George Young and Therman Gibson put together a 1304 score in the doubles event, and Gibson then hit 691 in singles.

Detroit's Fife Electrics are leading in the all-events trophy race with 8995 for its five members in all divisions. Cleveland's Cavoli Five, pace-setters in the team division, have 8939 and E & B tallied 8872.

Only one other change was recorded yesterday on the standings boards, as Wilbur Herschelman of Lorain, O., moved into fifth place in the all-events division with 1897.

BE HOME SOON MA, SAYS TRIBE HURLER

Giants Club Bill Kennedy for 8 Runs, 11 Hits.

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 10—Lefty Bill Kennedy, the Akron rookie who burned up the minor leagues' strikeout records, held a teetering position on the Cleveland Indians' mound staff today.

The curve-balling southpaw saw his chances of sticking with the Tribe go glimmering yesterday as he was clubbed for eight runs and 11 hits as the New York Giants won 10-2.

It was the first start for Kennedy and the Buckeye hurler pitched acceptably for three innings, holding the National league sluggers to one run.

The Giants' big bats fell on him for seven runs on seven hits in the fourth, however, to send him to an early shower. Jack Lohrke and Walker Cooper homered in the frame, while ex-Indian Jack Conway and Bobby Thomson contributed doubles to the game-winning rally.

Don Black yielded two runs, one on a circuit clout by Sid Gordon, in three innings before Les Webber whitewashed the New Yorkers in the other inning.

For the second straight day, the Indians were shackled at the plate by a regular Giant hurler. Sheldon (Available) Jones limited them to six bingles as they suffered their second straight loss

Bob Lemon, who passed out cigars yesterday to celebrate the birth of a son, was slated to oppose Thornton (Lefty) Lee, grizzled former Indian and Chicago White Sox hurler, in another game with the Giants here today.

UNIMPRESSED WITH YANKS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Local fans were far from impressed today with the vaunted power of the world champion New York Yankees.

First of all, the Yankees took 11 innings before downing the Montgomery Rebels of the class B Southeastern league, 8 to 5, yesterday. And secondly, Joe DiMaggio lifted the ball out of the infield only twice in four tries against 32-year-old righthander Bill Davis who hurled nine innings for the Rebels.

OHIO'S FISH TO GET SAME BREAK AS GAME

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 10 — The State Conservation commission is going to give Ohio's fish the same break it gives Ohio's game.

The commission yesterday set up the same policy on fish production that it already had operating for game. That policy calls for keeping whatever good living conditions now exist and for restoring those fish areas which have been depleted.

It's all a matter of aiming at better fishing in Ohio, the commission explained.

The state will keep up and improve good fishing in present streams and lakes. In addition, it plans to build new headwater lakes to increase the fish supply

E L Wickliff, chief of the fish management and propagation department, said artificial production and restocking was too costly and had failed to get expected results.

THERE was many a sore arm reported by the baseball hopefuls cavorting about Lincoln park in yesterday's near-freezing cold. . . . The candidates for positions with the Marion Clubs had spent their first full day of training—six big hours—Thursday and that, along with the cold, was enough to stiffen anybody's arm . . . They only worked from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m. yesterday, spending most of the time running. . . . In the morning Manager Zeke Bekeza had them running bases and in the afternoon he knocked out fly balls for them to chase after. . . . Another full session is scheduled today. . . . The first inter-squad game is due early next week.

LINCOLN PARK will have a new look when the season opens April 27. . . . Besides the addition of box seats along the base line toward first and third, there'll be a new color scheme—green . . . Workmen are now painting the bleacher seats. . . . The new 10-year lease between the Marion Baseball club and the city is expected to be signed any day. . . . The old lease has two years to run, but if the new lease is signed it will cancel the old one.

MIAMI UNIVERSITY opens its baseball season today with Xavier, and Bowling Breen opens at Ohio Wesleyan. . . . The Miami Redskins, coached by W. J. (Blue) Foster, will be able to start more than half of the same regulars who last year won 12 of 14 games. They'll play the Cincinnati team at home. . . . Bowling Green diamondmen have been working out a month. They're pretty well fixed in the infield with regulars at every position but second, and have two regulars among their 10 pitchers, but Coach Warren E. Steller's big worry is the outfield, with only one veteran in the lineup.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

FRANCES PERKINS, born April 10, 1882 in Boston, Mass., achieved fame as the first woman ever to sit in a presidential cabinet.

As secretary of labor for 12 years, she was frequently under bitter attack and criticism.

President Roosevelt refused to accept her resignation.

But after Truman became President she retired in 1945.

Before entering the cabinet she was an official in the labor department of New York state. Today, at 66, she a civil service commissioner.

ELECTRONIC WARFARE PLATOON FOR KENTON

KENTON, April 10—Anouncement was made here today of plans for the organization in Kenton of an Electronic Warfare Platoon, for the instruction and training of radio operators, electronic technicians and "strikers."

The announcement came from William Augur of this city, who will be in charge of getting up the program here under the auspices of the U.S. Navy.

Plans call for the enrollment of a maximum number of 10 men, who are to meet once each week. The members of the class will be classified as Inactive Naval Reserves.

All radio equipment for the group will be furnished by the Navy, it was announced.

The activities of the organization will consist mainly of setting up radio drill services with other reserve stations of this type. The program will get under way as soon as possible, Mr. Augur stated.

The city of St. Andrews, about halfway between Edinburgh and Dundee, is credited with being the birthplace of golf.
